

OUR VISION

Through its unique self-defense school, Goshin Ninjutsu Ryū, the Open Church for Philosophy and Spirituality (OCPS) aims to contribute, in a positive and constructive way, to improving the understanding of responsibilities and morals by all its participants.

The OCPS and Goshin Ninjutsu Ryū believe that through a comprehensive self-defense training package, as described in Our Mission, we can stimulate practitioners to take greater interest in personal fitness, discipline, morality, social and economic engagement.

Olango Island

Specifically for Olango Island the OCPS and Goshin Ninjutsu Ryū, also through free weekly self-defense and physical development classes that are open to everyone, want to actively contribute to improving the lives of the local youths and their environments.

We believe that through our activities we can stimulate practitioners in finding purpose in life, that we can help them value and exploit challenges that arise and that we can fundamentally support them as they seek lives for themselves that do NOT include drug/alcohol abuse and other addictions, senseless violence and crime.

Overall, we want to contribute to making Olango Island more enjoyable, more developed and advanced, more safe and we want to make all practitioners more aware of their personal and collective potentials.
